

6TH ANNUAL HARVARD ORTHOPAEDIC GOLF OUTING

SANDY BURR COUNTRY CLUB, WAYLAND, MA

MAY 28TH 2004

Despite the inclement weather, 68 hearty golfers made it out to the 6th Annual Harvard Orthopaedic Golf Outing held at the Sandy Burr Country Club on May 28th, 2004. The monsoon-like conditions in the morning could not dampen the spirits of these orthopaedic surgeons, who on this day gave up the knife for a golf club. By the 2nd hole, the conditions were near perfect, with the sun shining high and bright.

However, nobody was safe on this day--least of all an unwitting largemouth bass, which was taken out by a smouldering 30-yard fish-bound drive by Samantha Spencer. Sam would eventually win the Barry Simmons Award for the most outrageous moment of the day.

Some of the other award winners of the day included Dave Cashen (longest drive, men), Susie Stewart (longest drive, women), Karl Schultz (closest to pin) and Sean Rassman (most dangerous golfer).

The winning team of Lars Richardson, Steve Matheos,

Dick Scott, Brandon Earp, Sam Spencer and Lauren Adey

John Bonnell and Mark Price shot a low score of 11 under par.

Joe Czarnecki, Bob O'Toole, Sean Rassman, Renn Crichlow and Lauren Ellis did a wonderful job organizing this year's outing. Our tradition of camaraderie outside of the hospital continues to grow, and we look forward to next year's event.
